"The employees had a fantastic time and are looking forward to the next build... I think they are a great team building experience as employees and managers work with each other to get a job done. I like the fact that titles are forgotten and it is really about people doing something great to help others. Look forward to the next one!"

"Thanks for being patient and informative with us. I have heard a lot of positive talk all ready. I am hoping that will spur interest with others and we can have another Habitat Day. It is a good team building experience. I noticed that the people who said they head to leave stayed so it must have been fun. I will let you know when we are ready to do another day. Thanks again."

“We learned so much about the Habitat for Humanity family in Camden. You have our respect and admiration for sure! Project Manager Robert Fellner and Construction Manager John Collier took us under their wings and taught us how to take a step outside the office box so to speak, and become builders for a day. Their patience with our lack of construction skill was matched only by their kindness. It was a wonderful experience and I felt so proud of my co-workers for working SO hard to contribute to such a wonderful cause. It was a great day and we hope to encourage our mechanics and other Managers to participate in the future as well!”
